RALEIGH RSW16

World's Most Sophisticated Bicycle

IT'S NEW

IT FOLDS

The all new, all people Raleigh RSW-16 Compact is a real swinger. And we mean it literally! The handlebars swing in . . . the wheels swing together . . . and it's as foldable as a jackknife! There are no loose or detachable parts — the entire bicycle folds! Only the Raleigh needs no wrenches or special tools. It fits in a car trunk or a boat . . . it can even be checked at a railroad station! And it's a beauty. The Raleigh RSW-16 also comes in a nonfoldable model. Both fit the entire family and meet their every need. Is it any wonder that thousands have already been sold in England!

Only a Raleigh is really a Raleigh

Maybe you'll never race it...but you'll be tempted

Of course you'll be tempted! After all, the Austin Healey Sprite is bred to be used sportingly and competitively. It is a bona fide sports car. The official SCCA rating: Class H or Class G, depending on the year.

Of course you'll be tempted! (But even if you never race, the power you may someday need is there.) The competition-proved Austin Healey engine turns up speeds in excess of 90 mph. There are twin carbs and 4-speed shift. Sprite can sprint...and keep on going!

Of course you'll be tempted! (But even if you never race, the roadability you will surely enjoy is there.) The steering is never spongy or indefinite; and the redesigned rear suspension encourages impeccable manners. Sprite is as sure-footed through the corners as any other runners.

Of course you'll be tempted! (But even if you never race, the control you must always have is there.) There are big disc brakes up front and 7" drums in the rear. Sprite's stopping power is commensurate with its performance.

Of course you'll be tempted...tempted to prove that your Sprite can do as handsomely as it looks. We have wrapped everything in the smoothest possible envelope—modern, Spartan and rather lovely.

All this and roll-up windows.

All this and 30 plus m.p.g.

All this for under $2,000.*

Temptation rears its lovely head—at your Austin Healey dealer. Give in gracefully.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?

Christine Keeler:

British doubles and multiples crewing champion — 1963. Known as the “Greatest of the Gross” Christine titillated all England with her adventurous playing. Although she never reached the Olympics, her world-wide matches made her well known the world over and especially in eastern Europe. When she left the sport, Christine caused the fall of a whole government.

Today Christine lives with her 67 illegitimate children in a fashionable apartment in Manhattan. “I don’t have to work anymore; with all these children, relief, Job Corps and all, I’m making more money than at the peak of my career,” says the still comely athlete, “but I do think I might return as a coach someday. The sport has really gone to the dogs recently, what with everybody trying it. In my day, you had to have something . . .” You sure did, Christine.

Sonny Liston:

Tough heavyweight champion of two years ago who demolished his opponents within the first round. His malevolent visage won for him the title of the Big Bear. At his peak, he could stare down all the toughest of challengers, and thus got out of shape because he never had to hit anybody.

Today he is Assistant Dean of Undergraduate Affairs at a large eastern technological college. Learning from his adversaries, he has added poetry to his many talents; today his favorite is a piece of doggerel called “Anyone”:

Anyone here in ten minutes

Ain’t gonna be here tomorra.

According to his employers, Champ Liston is “Just what we needed. . . these are dangerous times; the tools are dangerous. With Liston, we shall overcome.”

Postal Information

Having just started on the literary staff of this magazine, VooDoo, I have been asked to write this postal information. I don't know why; you don't read this section anyway. Nobody in their right mind would want to take out a second-class mail subscription for this magazine, not even for three dollars ($69 if you live in Pago Pago), and even if you did write out a check, you would be mad if you posted it to the VooDoo office, M.I.T. Student Center, Cambridge, Mass. 02139. (The chances are that you wouldn't receive eight issues a year, November through June, but you might get a special issue in August.) The only humour in this magazine is the fact that the VooDoo Managing Board actually bothered to copyright it, on April 22nd, 1966. Who would want to copy it – it's not worth reading in the first place.

SPORTS NEWS OF THE MONTH

THE SPORTS PANEL

Bridge: Spectators stood back amazed when in the national championships, on the last rubber, the husband-wife combination, Mr. and Mrs. Gulbertson laid down for a game.

Boxing: Due to his outstanding qualification in the sport, the Italian Olympic Commission has nominated Cassanova as coach in the Boxing Hall of Fame.

Bowling: Myopia Munch took first place in the Western Women's Bowling Division. She used her famous two-holed balls in the famous no-holes-barred tournament.

Truffle Hunting: Cheered on by their exuberant rooting team, Chaundler School for Women again dug into the vast depths of their reserves and again captured the Annual Truffle Hunting Trophy at Boston Commons over the weekend.

Co-ed Wrestling: The Dean of Admissions has advised our reporter that the high standard attained by the school over the years will be maintained in the class of 1970. This is the only sport in which an athletic scholarship is offered by the Institute. (In fact one would think it were an Institute requirement).

Rat Splatting: The rats are back and Beacon Street's rat-splatters have blazed into glory again. "This year's record," reports President Rafunk, "is a double five-story flaming rat-splat using the same rat twice."

RIGHT:
Maimed college students participate in sports. Wheelchair racing is really catching on. Note helmets, and seat belts; safety features complying with new Federal Standards.

ABOVE: Slick Louisiana Stud, a poor loser in the Nebraska pocket billiards championship. Now serving 99 years in Leavenworth, for knifing Minnesota Fats.

Mating Game: With the advent of mating season the IM council has informed us that the playoffs are being held in the Stud Center Library, the Green Building elevator, the V D office, McCormick pent house, and, in fact, anywhere you get the feeling.

Bird Watching: B. Usher has reported the sighting of two rare nocturnal birds in red and black bushes. He attributes this great find to his infra-red snooper scope.

High Hurdles: Dick Hurtz, after having unsuccessfully attempted to set a new world's record in the high hurdles, today announced his plan to join the Vienna Boys Choir as a soprano.

P.S. Sports don't wear shorts.

Golf: King Oedipus' son has been nominated for the Masters Tournament, and he has the record of playing around under par since his first attempts.

Superball Championships: This is becoming America's fastest growing sport. Perhaps the reason for the game's immense appeal is, as one player put it, "All you need is the balls to play."

Chess: Chess has recently been outlawed in Alabama, since it was reported in the local press that "The black King, was mated by the white Queen, aided by the bishop for two Knights in a castle."

WHITE FISHING

The Charles — Sportsmen of New England protested most vigorously the building of the tunnel under the Charles because they claim that the caissons are cutting them off from their supply of Charles River white fish which breed at the MDC beach on Memorial Drive. A spokesman for the MIT Outing Club said, "Isn't it bad enough that new methods of breeding control have cut the supply of white fish in half? Now our members will never again see the sure announcement of Spring by the white fish in the Charles."

WORLD'S GREATEST SHOT

AUSTRIA — The world's greatest shot was made by the world renowned French skier, Jean Paul Gotcha. This fantastic feat was performed in mid-air after JP had left the forty meter jump. He executed a drop-trou which totally snowed the over one thousand spectators and won JP first prize. Said the Head Judge, "Never have I seen a more perfect shade of red."

STUFFING

Bahston — Wilter Stilter set a new world's record by stuffing it seventeen times tonight. He would have had eighteen, but officials from the ASSU refused to count the stuffing of "Shorty" Russell as being immoral, sadistic, and against the American way of life. Wilter's comment, "Man, I'm all petered out!" Bahston announcer Johnny Least's description of the game failed to mention the stuffing record but did give a very graphic description of Shorty's fantastic achievements of removing 69 ounces of belly button lint and a paper clip from his navel while Bahston went down to defeat.

PIE EATING

MIT The editor of a world renowned humor magazine gained recognition for eating out thirteen cherry pies in one hour. He was refused record recognition because he refused to eat the crusts.

Jock World Presents an Exclusive Interview with Hockey Star JACQUES STRAPEAU

by Chuck Deber of the Montreall Rag

He may not score a lot of goals (he has scored five over the past eight seasons), but Montreall Canadadry's star forward JACQUES STRAPEAU is a fierce competitor and a great guy. We were fortunate enough to be able to meet Jacques and his family at his home in Boon Dox, Sask., just 2600 miles west of Montreall.

"Well, Jacques, it's real nice of you to grant this exclusive interview to Jock World."

"Well, Chuck, it's great to be here, you know what I mean, eh?"

"Well, Jacques, how does it look for the Canadadry's this season?"

"Well, Chuck, if the guys can get up for the games, you know what I mean, and if the guys can skate more, and shoot more, and just get out there and hustle, well

"Well, Chuck, ooo eee ooo ahh ahh, ting tang walla puck bang, eh?" says hockey star JACQUES STRAPEAU.

I think we might win or lose."

Win, lose, tie, or draw, Jacques is always in there hustling. Opposing players just collapse into gales of uncontrollable laughter when they spot Jacques charging up the ice, often allowing Jacques to skate in unmolested and pepper opposition goalies with piles and piles of flying pucks. They never go into the net, however, and Jacques explains why.

"Well, Chuck, I figure a pile of flying pucks, you know, can really hurt a guy, and I don't got nothin' against no goalies, so I don't wanna hit 'em with pucks, eh?"

"Well, Jacques, I see, so you purposely shoot to miss the net?"

"Well, Chuck, you know, I can't do that or I'll lose my job. I mean, I gotta be skating and shooting all the time in this league. But, what I do is, I stop in front of the net and ask the goalie to please step aside."

"Well, Jacques, can you really convince opposing goaltenders to leave their nets?"

"Well, Chuck, to tell you the truth, I've never been able to convince any of them to move, and while I'm discussing things with the goalie, the defensemen get back in position and they check me fiercely into the boards, and I lose possession of the puck as I fall to the ice. Our coach, Jean-Guy Froggie, says that this is probably the reason why I score so few goals. But the coach is a great guy, eh?"

When hockey star Jacques Strapeau is not out on the ice hustling and skating and shooting and everything, he works in the off-season with his brother, The Pocket Jacques-strap, digging ditches. We asked Jacques why he "dug" ditch digging.

"Well, Chuck, a pro hockey star like me has to keep his muscles in condition all year 'round, and when I'm digging those ditches, surrounded by piles and piles of flying muck, I just feel good and clean, eh?"

"Well, Jacques, I couldn't help noticing the shovel and pile of dirt and deep hole in your backyard. What's it gonna be?"

"Well, Chuck."

We asked Jacques to relate to readers of Jock World what he considered to be his most exciting moment on the ice as a professional hockey star. Jacques said he would be glad to.

"Well, Chuck, I'd be glad to relate that to you and your readers. One night the Canadadry's were playing the Maple Griets, and it was the seventh and final game of the playoffs, see, and the score was tied, 0-0, and we were in the third sudden-death overtime period, see, and neither team could score, see, the action was furious, up the ice, down the, see, ice. Then, suddenly, I don't know how it happened, there it was, the puck on my stick, and nothing between me and the goalie except a stretch of clear ice. I lurched forward, blades dug fiercely into ice, and I skated in all alone. Well, as I literally flew over the blue line and was within range of the net — I'll never forget this — somebody from the stands threw a live octopus on the ice. It landed on my head, slithered down my back, bit my suspenders in half, and my pants fell down. The crowd roared as I dropped trou, eh?"

"Well, Jacques, you still had the puck all alone. I suppose you skated in and scored the goal that won the playoffs."

"Well, Chuck, as I skated in, I yelled to the goalie, 'Step aside, eh', but I guess he didn't hear me because the crowd was roaring so loud, and by that time the defensemen had caught up with me and tied my suspenders around the goal post. I'll never forget that night."

The Canadadry's went on to win the game eventually, on an unusual play wherein Jacques Strapeau's mother, thinking Jacques would be hungry after so many periods of hockey, walked out on the ice while the game was on and handed Jacques a salami sandwich on a bulkie roll. This puck so completely distracted the Maple Grief players, particularly their goalie, that the real puck slid down the ice and slithered unnoticed into the Grief's net to end the game.

Jacques Strapeau lives with his wife, Puckette, and his 29 children, ranging in age from 1 month to 15 years. We asked Jacques if he thought this was an unusually large number of children.

"Well, Chuck, when Puckette and I got married, we decided we would have enough children to raise our own hockey team, eh?"

"Well, Jacques, you need only six for a complete team."

"Well, Chuck, we have 24 girls and only 5 boys right now. Besides, my oldest son, Max, 6 years old, is already 8 feet tall, and I'm afraid he may want to be a basketball player instead. So our family is still growing, heh heh."

Jock World is pleased to wish Montreall star Jacques Strapeau lots of luck with that puck. He is truly a hockey player's hockey player, as well as a Jock's Jacques.

We'll have the weather forecast in just a moment.

Sent a letter to 20 lay treasurers of churches in an effort to form an organization to collect public records on a continuous basis. RECEIVED no replies.

Had a business phone installed in my home but could not buy, paid adv. in Yellow pages of phone book.

Set 2 signs on our city's terrace of my taxed property to match the contempt of others already doing it. My signs were removed by the street & alley dept. on orders of the police dept. There is no record of the acts in either dept. Only verbal assurances. My signs were remade and reset (with more public information) in my yards. Received a letter from City Attorney Frank Curran on his action if sign was not changed. Later Frank Curran resigned as City Attorney. Sent a letter to attorney Frank Curran asking information on who ordered or complained for his letter. Received no reply. Sent a letter to County Association for the Advancement of Colored People (after several misleading guesses of address by sub-officials of the body NAACP) asking if Alderman Jesse Franks discussed his warning to me and the problem with them. RECEIVED no reply. Before and after my signs were removed from our city's terrace, real estate dealers (Washer, Gregor, Martin & Spivey, etc.) and Lang Buick used our city's terrace.

Red Paperback lighted up his cigar. It exploded, and right away he knew that things weren't going so well with the game. Shuffling around uneasily, he pulled an envelope out of his pocket, took a letter out, and handed it to me. I read it and gasped. I knew then there was still hope - that

by Bob Pindyck and Mike Levine

(that dynamic duo from the Woopgaroo Society)

I remember the first time I met Rocket Hippocket. At that time he was just recovering from an injured ferndock. His ferndock was swathed in bandages, but I knew then that he was going to make his comeback. Determination to be ready for the first game of the season drove him to undergo hours of exercise, despite the intense pain. He lifted a leg and moaned "pain." He lifted a leg and moaned "tension." And then he lifted a leg and moaned "agony." I grimaced. It was my leg.

After that I got to know Rocket Hippocket well. Real well. I got to know what made him tick. It was my leg.

I remember the day at pre-puberty training. He had just learned to dribble. It wasn't much as first, but then at the time he was just a beginner, just a rotten amateur. But he had the potential. And that's what counts. The potential. And he sure had the potential.

But most of all he was tough. And I mean tough. When Rocket played pocket basketball, he played to win, and there was no messing around.

I remember when he got his first bid from the Big League. It was from the Detroit Pissons. He didn't take it though. He had always wanted to be a Knickerlicker, and nothing else would do. Except for my leg.

Anyway, now he's on the New York Knickerlickers. And let me tell you - he's the star. And I'm not throwing any foul balls when I say that. I mean, he's the champ, and there'll never be another like him. Not in pocket basketball anyway. You can talk about your Gunther Havasuk, or your Jones Jones. But they were nothing, compared to Rocket Hippocket.

The day of the big game dawned upon me. The Knickerlickers were in last place now, but if they won the game - and they were really up for winning - they'd be in first place, and get a crack at the pennant. If only they could beat the Los Angeles Latkes.

The Knickerlickers had a good start in the first quarter of play. The Latkes' defense was slow, and they were penalized four times for palming the ball. This was a new record for a team in the first quarter of a night p.b. game in May. Once before, in a p.b. game in August, the Detroit Pis- sons were charged with three palm- ings and a snatching, but this record was discounted when it was discover- ed that one of the palmings was actu- ally potted.

But at the start of the second quar- ter, Rocket's old ferndock started to act up. Linecoach Reckerpecka de- cided to reserve his manpower and called Rock out, putting in Hernando Herniate. "Hernando," he said, "Get in there and knock 'em up!"

But Hernando was no substitute for the great Rocket Hippocket. The Lat- kes ran all over the Knickerlickers in the second quarter, and did a lot of scoring. Undercoach Kirsch Couch realized this was the kind of thing that could determine the outcome of the game. Something had to be done.

The half-time rest found Under- coach Couch talking to Overcoach Cootch Crotch and Stagecoach Her- man Sqerman. The atmosphere, gloomy and grim, hung heavy with old socks. Meanwhile, Rocket was trying to take a shower but with his ferndock in its injured state he couldn't manage. It was too heavy. It was my leg.

When the team ran back onto the court, Rocket was not with them. Things went from bad to worse in the third quarter. It looked like it was all lost for the poor Knickerlickers, when Red Paperback lighted up his cigar.

It exploded and right away he knew that things weren't going so well with the game. Shuffling around uneasily, he pulled an envelope out of his pocket, took a letter out and handed it to me. I read it and gasped. It was a Q! I knew then that there was still hope — that Rocket Hippock- et would indeed put the Knicker- lickers in front in pocket basketball.

And it's what's up front that counts.

Rocket ran out onto the court! He grabbed the balls, dribbled all over!!! He charged across the double blue line, frammissed the doublemint, hooped the outer quadrant of the arch, laid a shot up into the hotdog man, cornered around the page and scored six points simultaneously.

This, by the way, was the first time in p.b. history that a player scored more than four points simultaneously after frammissing the doublemint on an outer quadrant. He accomplished this with the added dexterity of a man of extraordinary facilities. It was my leg.

And so, as we all know, Rocket Hippocket made pocket basketball history when he put the New York Knickerlickers in the pocket for the pennant, and made the crowds cheer, the spectators holler, the audience yell, and the fans blow.

I guess there's no doubt about it — there'll never be another Rocket Hip- pocket. Pocket Basketball has seen its greatest day. It was my leg.

BIG TORO CRADLES THE BALL

By Onan

The dressing room was hot and sweaty, but it was home. And a welcome home too, after winning that tough game over Benedict Aarnold U.

"Yessir," reflected 'Toro', the team's star defense man, "Lacrosse is a great game." He took a mighty swing with his big stick, neatly cleaving four lockers and the coach. Something was funny about the locker room today though. He just couldn't put his finger on it. Whenever he tried it always seemed to elude him, most of the other players being fast although not as powerful as Toro. Maybe it was that big guy with the boots, fur cap, and beard standing in the corner. After all, even in Boston it's kinda warm in May for a fur cap, although boots and beards do seem to flourish in hot weather.

The big guy started to saunter over to Toro. With one swift motion he kicked six men of lesser stature out of the way, cleared his throat, and stuck out his big paw as if to shake hands. Toro could see right away that this was his kind of man, but noted that he had dirty fingernails for future reference.

"Hello, my name is Ivan," boomed Ivan, "I represent the Irish Liberation Front, and am here to recruit help for the new International Anti-Property and Help Beautify the Secondary Roads Campaign, commonly referred to as SCEP. I was wondering if you had ever led a crew of a thousand men into the rising sun to cut wheat for starving people in the bread basket of the world."

"No, but have you ever tasted Colt 45 Malt Liquor?" instinctively replied Toro.

With this the discussion was off to a rousing start and was interrupted only once as two men in N.C.A.A. sweatshirts dragged a screaming boy, his legs haplessly cramped into a sitting position and wearing an N.A.A.C.P. sweatshirt from the locker room to shouts of "Brutality", "Riot", and "$1900 is too damn much."

Ivan, being well equipped with soap, water, and a Supreme Court Order, quickly had Toro's brain scrubbed clean. Stick in hand, and Breshnev cocktail in thermos bottle, they set out to cleave wheat in the underdeveloped areas of Cambodia.

Once they reached the docks, apparently established by the late Daniel Boone since they were named in his honor, they were greeted by a U.S.I.S. man asking all sorts of questions.

"Why did you give up your athletic scholarship to serve mankind?"

"Do you feel that a stable situation can be established in Viet Nam?"

"What makes a good foreign service officer?"

"What makes a good shave?"

To all of which he answered, as instructed, "No comment," except the last to which he replied, "the barber."

Boarding the ship with Ivan he took one last, fond look at the Statue of Liberty, wondered once again what it meant, had a fleeting pang of regret that he would never see his family or friends again, and settled back to sharpen his stick for the tedious work ahead.

"ARRGH," says Toro.

JOCK WORLD TESTS

1966 Aardvark 9.3 passenger Coupe de Sporte; manufactured by Aardvark Motors, Inc., Dingman's Ferry, South Carolina.

Base Price: $5525. Options Available: Engine, Steering Wheel. Options Fitted: Engine, Steering Wheel. Price as tested: $4397.

In the field of automotive journalism, one rarely comes across a machine as fantastic as the 1966 Aardvark. All of our testers admitted that it was the most unusual car they'd ever come across. Our test car was the top of the Aardvark line, the plush Coupe de Sporte. This model is authentically finished in the Early American style. The seat cushions are covered with avant-garde chintz, and are stuffed with mouldy straw. The roof of the car and the inside door panels are finished with warped shingles stolen from local privies. The dashboard is made of genuine armadillo skin, complete with the little hairs and the disgusting beady eyes.

The carpet of the Aardvark caused one of our testers to remark that it was "just like being back on the little old farm in South Carolina". Perhaps this was because the Aardvark has a dirt floor, complete with live alfalfa. In addition to its luxurious softness, the alfalfa helps to mask exhaust odors. This is especially useful, since the exhaust headers are connected directly to the fresh air vents.

The Aardvark abounds in sophisticated safety features; these include: fiberglass corduroy seatbelts, a shatterproof extruded-aluminum windshield, and an escape hatch in the roof.

The external styling of the Aardvark offers a refreshing change from the usual horrors found on American cars. The Aardvark is totally devoid of chrome, except for the front and rear grilles, which are identical. This prompted a number of people to remark that anyone who would drive an Aardvark doesn't know whether he's coming or going. We feel this question is open to debate, and we are considering having another Reader's Poll to settle the matter. All onlookers were forced to admit, however, that the Aardvark's grilles look very stylish, having been meticulously fashioned from Budweiser beer cans that had been run over by a 10-ton truck.

We must honestly admit that the ride and handling of the Aardvark leave much to be desired. Body lean is excessive, and we found it impossible to take corners sharper than 13° in anything higher than second gear. Attempts to use a higher gear resulted in the car's flipping over several times. Some of our testers attributed this to either the car's rudimentary suspension (see technical specifications) or its high center-of-gravity (see exterior dimensions), but we suspect that much of the trouble may be due to the ellipsoidally-shaped wooden wheels which come as standard equipment on the car.

A few minor points may be mentioned here. The three-foot diameter cardboard steering wheel, which is attached to the front wheels by a rubber band, is mounted rather high (on the roof). It can be easily reached, however, by scaling the fourteen-foot ladder provided and punching out the escape hatch with a hammer. This requires no great effort, since all body panels are fabricated of 1/16" papier-mache.

In addition, some drivers were annoyed by the glare from the courtesy light, a red-tinted, naked 300-watt bulb in the middle of the floor. We feel, though, that this minor inconvenience is more than balanced by the main benefit of this light - namely, it helps to keep the alfalfa from growing too high.

To sum up, we can only repeat that the 1966 Aardvark Coupe de Sporte is a truly amazing luxury automobile.

EAT PIE

at National Pie Diving Contest

In this day and age, when the average youth is diving into anything that comes his way, we have seen the advent of such sports as high diving, skin diving, and sky diving, but the latest and greatest sport on the upsurge is pie diving. Unlike the advocates of the other sports, the pie diver requires no extraneous tools or equipment. Indeed, the neophyte pie diver attempts to wear as little attire as possible so that he can attain the ultimate satisfaction when he plummets from his airy tower into the brooding midst of the steaming, heart-warming cream pie.

The national championships were held at Palisades Amusement Park and there was a record 20,000 attendance to witness the final dive-offs between Jay O'Muchly from South Boston, Hugh George Asim of Pasadena, and Horrible Haystacks Caloun from Kansas.

At the end of the third round Horrible, due to his excessive weight, hit the bottom of the pie dish, creaming up the whole of the visitors gallery including Mayor Ramsey, and retired from the championship.

In the fifth round J. O. came short landing beside the pie and injuring his head.

Thus the final results, Hugh George Asim came first, second J. O. Muchly with a wounded head, third agh Horrible.

DITWIDDLE TIDDLEYWINK

by Scott Hott

Physical Conditioning

In tiddlywinks, as in any other major sport, enough emphasis cannot be placed on sound physical conditioning. In order to get anywhere tiddly-wise one must prepare himself by years of arduous labor until he has brought his arm, big toe, gastrocnemius, and sphincter muscles to the peak of development, and can use them at the coordinated mass of power necessary for this gruelling sport. There are certain classic exercises used by champion tiddlers the world over; among them being:

Concentration: (a) Assume the standard position and practice staring at the cup — 3 hrs minimum; (b) Try to think what it would feel like if you were a tiddle and had just been winked.

Finger exercises: (a) Holding your hands in front of you, palm up, curl your fingers into your palm; repeat until it begins to hurt (Note-let your fingers and arms do the work. If you are using your back for extra leverage, you are not deriving full benefit from the exercise). As you become more proficient, you can progress to the more difficult "reverse curls". (b) Many tiddlywinks stars carry a small ball with them at all times, which they squeeze repeatedly to build up their fingers (Fig. 1).

Eye-hand coordination: Put an object on the table. Reach for it. Try to get it on the first shot.

Breath control: Proper breath control is a necessary part of any good winker's game. Since it is considered a foul to fog an opponent's tiddle, and artificial breath control is strictly prohibited, the aspiring tiddler must achieve an even rhythm in his breathing. This natural breath control will keep him out of trouble in many future matches.

Fig. 1. North American Champion Tiddler Horace "Flip" Ditwiddle demonstrates the proper thumb-and-forefinger ball squeezing technique. Tiddler Ditwiddle has been tiddling around since he was nine and has developed exceptionally strong fingers for a lad of 18.

Equipment

At his local authorized N.T.D.A. (National Tiddlywinks Dealers' Association) store the neophyte can find all the equipment necessary for a top-notch game, available in a wide range of prices. The beginner will not want to get in over his head, but should purchase a good set of domestic winks as a start. After he has gained more insight into the game he can begin to shop around for a matched set of professionals' winks. Remember, a good set of winks is a lifetime investment, so when the final choice is made, have your winks fitted by an expert.

Official winks are made of carved aardvark tooth although substitutes of fresh dodo beak have been allowed in recent years. The standard floor covering is woven of reprocessed yak fuzz which cannot be bleached or dyed and must be green in color. The cup comes in three sizes, A, B, C, depending on the size of the tiddles. For those who do not like to carry a bulky wink when traveling, there is a special wink which breaks down for easier handling and storage. There are special women's tiddles which come in many sizes and shapes. They are often of high quality and when handled well, draw a great deal of interest from the male teams

Basic skills

Addressing the wink: Don't forget the Zipcode. When addressing the wink most players prefer a simple "Hi!" but some use the more formal, "Good day Mr. Wink."

Grip: The most commonly used is the so-called "Polish" grip. To form the grip, grasp the wink between the thumb and ring finger of the right hand; cross the forefinger under the thumb and under the wink for support; the little finger should be tucked in against the palm.

Salute: Form the Polish grip on a wink. Holding it with the wink toward you, gesture toward your partner.

Basic shot: With a sharp snap, arch the tiddle toward the cup.

Bank shot: Bounce the wink off your opponent's tiddle.

Professional Tiddle &

Tetanus shot: Set the jaw firmly before shooting.

TOURNAMENT RULES

1. Officials: Timekeeper, Federal Mediators (2), Chairman of the Board, Secretary of the Interior, Dean of Student Affairs, Supreme Deities (2).

2. Steel-toed shoes and metal spikes may be worn only by the goalies.

3. No player may have a thumb-nail longer than 10/16 times the wavelength of the pure line in the spectrum of three-day-old Moroccan belly-button lint.

4. If, in the opinion of three-fourths of the officials present, unless the Supreme Deities are in disagreement or the Timekeeper has exercised his right of veto, or, alternatively, the officials are in unanimous agreement (the Secretary of the Interior here being exempted) the former opinion shall prevail.

5. No player may at any time have three of his own tiddles in such position that they occupy the vertices of a triangle.

In this issue of JOCK WORLD magazine, our reporter reports on a new WHAMO! SMASHO! BANGO! WHAPPO! BIFFO! new sport, called

CAN-O

Gary (Gallopig Glorper) Geezlewoppet scores his second cungle of the season!

This new game, which JOCK WORLD Magazine recommends for both spectators and participants, but not referees, is called CAN-O! and can be played by two or seventeen players, plus referees (which are expendable). Our reporter describes the first game of the season, and lists the rules of this new game.

Well, sports fans, here we were out here at And-How's-Your-Bush stadium watching the first CAN-O! game, but we suddenly discovered we didn't have enough empty beer cans to set up a goal, so we got drunk as skunks, and HOO-HAH! did we have one hell of a barf-o, I mean Heave-Ho, I mean CAN-O! game! We got so goddamn drunk we couldn't see the chair, much less the window! It made an especially interesting game when the goal became so covered with our regurgitations that the referee couldn't tell the difference between the players and the goal! In fact, he called three fouls on empty Millers' cans!

Rule 1: The purpose of the game is for the player (P in fig. 1) to throw (rarfle) the chair (C) at the pile of empty beer cans (B) located on the table (T) in front of the window (W) without glorping the referee (R). If possible, the player (P) should cungle (knock all the cans (B) off the table (T) with one rarfle.) At the first game, we saw only two cungles, by Henry (Rarely-Rarfle) Heidelk-long, and Gary (Gallop-ing Glorper) Geezlewopper; both were superbly executed with the grace and skill characteristic of the way a Chevrolet-driver kills a pregnant cocker spaniel.

Rule 2: The player (P) must stand behind the foul line (F) at all times.

Rule 3: Unless he gets in a fight with the referee. (This is one of the (most important rules of the game!)) During one Rule Three intersession, we saw three referees and four rarflers hitting each other over the head with broken chairs! Jeez! Was that fun! Almost as good as those Bruins' games where the Boston fans yell "Fight! Fight!" and "Kill the bum!" and "Hit the SOB over the head with your broken stick, you chicken bastard!")

Rule 4: The player is awarded a number of points equal to the number of cans he knocks off the table on each rarfle, unless he cungles, in which case he is awarded ten (10) extra points. Or unless he perfloozles or flabalops. Or, in rare instances, kamikazes. Almost no one ever pabblecraps. (Almost no one; "Hairy" Harry Herry Hary, the hairy Harrier, has pabblecrapped almost every single game since the start of his career! Honest Injun, Sports Fans!)

Rule 5: The referee (R) must stand within five (5) feet (feet) of the table (T) at all times (t). (No one ever violates this rule, no matter how drunk he gets from the rebounds from beer cans (B) that weren't quite empty.)

Rule 6: A player perfloozles if he kills the referee in one, and only one, rarfle. (This game is pretty goddamn rough on referees, sports fans.) A player who perfloozles is awarded twelve (12) points, unless the referee has already been glorped (wounded), in which case the player who perfloozles receives three (3) points, and the player who first glorped receives nine (9) points more. (I'll tell ya, sports fans, this is the bloodiest goddamn sport you ever saw! I never had so much goddamn fun in my whole goddamn life! Nothing, and I mean nothing, quite equals the pleasure of seeing a referee glorped, or even perfloozled, right in front of your own goddamn eyes! It's almost as much fun as boiling a freshly killed child in pure, low-in-saturated-fat vegetable oil! But not quite.)

Rule 7: A player flabalops if he both knocks all the cans off the table and breaks the window, in the same rarfle; if he merely breaks the window, without simultaneously cungling he gborntzes, and ten (10) points are subtracted from his score. (If CAN-O! is played in the MIT Stud Center, the player who gborntzes is penalized fifty (50) dollars ($).)

Rule 8: A player who glorps (wounds a referee) receives three (4) (you wouldn't believe where we got those empty beer cans, sports fans) points, unless a later rarfler perfloozles on an already glorped referee, in which case the player who glorped receives (9) more points (pints) (see (6) above (sic)).

"Rarely-Rarfle" rarflies with an off-the-left-foot-back-cungle, unassisted.

Rule 9: A player kamikazes if he first cungles, then perfloozles, and then the chair (C) rebounds and kills the player (P). In this case, the player is awarded twenty (20) points (which does him a hell of a lot of good; Ralph (Rarfle-Raffler) Rallph won 7,000 (seven thousand) of his 7,021 points this way, and it was harder than hell on him) unless in the rebound after the cungle and perfloozle, the rebounding chair kills another player, in which case the rarfler is awarded thirty (30) points (quarts).

Rule 10: A player pabblecraps if he cungles, then perfloozles, and then flabalops. A player who pabblecraps is awarded fifty (50) points. Unless he is too drunk to notice, in which case the other players subtract as many points from his score as they think they can get away with (this can mean the game, right here, sports fans). If the player who pabblecraps catches the other players subtracting points from his score, he may yoptvaimott (beat the other remaining players over the head with his remaining chair) until they say uncle.

A player who says uncle while being yoptvaimotted automatically forfeits seven (14,232) points.

Rule 11: A player who first perfloozles, then cungles, then kamikazies, and finally flabalops, without glorping, has chutzpah. (Chori O. Phoroi did this at the game we saw, the first game of the first season, which establishes a record for the most chutzpahs during the first game of a first season of a game that hasn't even been invented yet, or anyway, to our knowledge, as far as we know, or something like that there, sports fans, anyway?")
