NO-PREG

12 RHYTHMIC ACTION CAPSULES—YEAR'S RELIEF !

When you're watching a drive-in movie from the backseat of your date's Volkswagen, you don't have time to go to the refreshment booth for a glass of water.

With this in mind we created the chewable NO-PREG tiny "time-will-tell" capsules—anytime, anyplace, you can pop them in your mouth, like candy.

When taken as directed in a conscientiously applied program of moral hygiene NO-PREG capsules

- Rush decongestants to swollen cavities and shrink them without surgery
- drain nasal passages with powerful antihistamines
- Make "my brother was an only child" a reality
- keep you cool, calm and dry
- dissolve slowly, putting just enough LSD and caffeine in your blood to keep you alert and flying
- relieve nausea and depression accompanying unexpected parasites
- reach areas coat hangers cannot
- are fun to use and they taste good too

Play it safe with NO-PREG

Maybe you'll never race it...but you'll be tempted

Of course you'll be tempted! After all, the Austin Healey Sprite is bred to be used sportingly and competitively. It is a bona fide sports car. The official SCCA rating: Class H or Class G, depending on the year.

Of course you'll be tempted! (But even if you never race, the power you may someday need is there.) The competition-proved Austin Healey engine turns up speeds in excess of 90 mph. There are twin carbs and 4-speed shift. Sprite can sprint...and keep on going!

Of course you'll be tempted! (But even if you never race, the roadability you will surely enjoy is there.) The steering is never spongy or indefinite; and the redesigned rear suspension encourages impeccable manners. Sprite is as sure-footed through the corners as any other runners.

Of course you'll be tempted! (But even if you never race, the control you must always have is there.) There are big disc brakes up front and 7" drums in the rear. Sprite's stopping power is commensurate with its performance.

Of course you'll be tempted...tempted to prove that your Sprite can do as handsomely as it looks. We have wrapped everything in the smoothest possible envelope—modern, Spartan and rather lovely.

All this and roll-up windows.

All this and 30 plus m.p.g.

All this for under $2,000.*

Temptation rears its lovely head—at your Austin Healey dealer. Give in gracefully.

POSTAL INFORMATION

VooDoo is published monthly during the school year by the VooDoo Managing Board, 84 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge, Massachusetts, 02139; entered as Second Class Mail at the Boston Post Office, sold for thirty-five cents on campus and elsewhere for forty cents, year subscription three dollars. Volume 50, Number 9. God Bless America.

Caveat lector . . .

A message from an exile

Will this be you? Will you spend your days like the man in the picture, picking glossy magazines from the lofty boughs upon which they grow? Will you end your days as a slave to the glossy page? Do not laugh and say, "Aw, pshaw," or "Not me, bag," or something like that. Rather, sit down and consider these few crucial facts.

The young man in the picture has that look of irresponsible dementia found only in the lowest of men; the Bowery bum, the Haight-Ashbury hippie, or the Tuscon fruit-picker. He most assuredly has none of the dignity that a National Honor Society member, an M.I.T. freshman, or a mother's favorite son would have. And yet, but a few short months ago, this fellow too was all of these wonderful things. You might ask, "What has ruined this man?" or "Why is he being so silly?" To this, I can but answer that he, like countless others, has succumbed to the glow of the glossy magazine, has been undone by the glint and the gleam of the 80-pound coated, clay-filled slick page. The lurid shine of the thirty-five cent magazine was the porch light for this moth.

As scientific, medical proof, consider the two unretouched braingrams presented below. The "before" braingram shows the pure thoughts of a young innocent, on his way to M.I.T., before having encountered a magazine such as VooDoo. Note the transformation of good thoughts on the "before" braingram into conjugate evil thoughts on the "after" braingram.

This is a major symptom of the slick-mag-syndrome.

How will you protect yourself against this dread affliction? I shall here, if I may, offer some advice. As an exile from the thirty-five cent glossy industry centered on the M.I.T. campus, I can see but two paths open to you, the unwary. Here then, are my plans A and B, to assist you in avoiding the slick syndrome:

Plan A. Play along. Acknowledge the magazine's existence. Buy such magazines, VooDoo in particular. Read them carefully (It shouldn't require more than two perusals to fully duplicate the efforts that went into their preparation). Quote these magazines at social gatherings, auto accidents, and Bar Mitzvahs. Use the pages as fuses in your urban protest Molotov cocktails. If you buy enough of their magazines, the demented archdemons at the glossy paperworks will be somewhat appeased and will throw less contagion and pestilence onto their hate presses.

Plan B. Join their ranks. Infiltrate the organizations. Write things for them. Sell ads for them. Become their (gasp!) General Managers! Think of the havoc that would create. All types of talents (and even more various non-talents) can be pitted against the glossy-mongers in this way. Records have shown that these organizations have been successfully infiltrated by all of the following types:

i) Writers: prose, poetry, graffiti.

ii) Salesmen: advertising, magazine, Japanese sex products.

iii) Photographers: black, white, color.

iv) Mesomorphs: bald, blond, cirrotic.

v) Artists: pen-and-ink, con, escape.

vi) Consumers: beer, pretzel, pizza.

vii) Make-up and layout people: good, bad, unthinkable.

viii) Mongooses: male, female, gelding.

ix) Lechers: prepuberty, postpuberty, gelding.

x) Gorillas: friendly, understanding, upset.

and in one exceptional case, xi) An Office Manager.

The possibilities are limitless. Anyone interested should contact his or her local VooDoo Recruiter at the Activities Midway. Simply ask for the Minister of Subversion and Infiltration.

I hope that my advice is well taken. I wish you luck now that my Boston days are over. I now sit back in my cane chair on the veranda of my villa, a deposed despot, living in exile in a lush Southern metropolis. I shuffle through the few dog-eared tatters that were once proud issues of a glorious glossy and I think back on how I would play it, were I in your shoes, at the threshold of the VooDoo office. Would I just buy lots of issues . . . or would I infiltrate the organization?

A man walked into a lingerie shop and asked the salesgirl for a brassiere.

"What size would you like?" asked the girl.

"Seven-and-a-half."

"Seven-and-a-half, sir? You must be mistaken."

"No mistake, I measured it myself."

"Er . . . well, how did you take the measurement, sir?"

"With my hat."

A young fellow, at a very wild party, had been observing one particular girl who sat composed and quiet while all the others around her made vulgar spectacles of themselves.

"There," he thought, "is a lady." He finally approached her.

"Quite a loud group," he said, off-handedly. "I'm afraid I don't fit in too well here. I've been watching you and I've come to the conclusion that you don't belong here, either. May I take you home?"

The girl looked up at him and smiled, then replied, "Certainly. Where do you live?"

"Anything else, sir?" asked the attentive bellhop, trying his best to make the lady and gentleman comfortable in their penthouse suite in the posh hotel.

"No. No thank you," replied the gentleman.

"Anything for your wife, sir?" the bellhop asked.

"Why, yes, young man," said the gentleman. "Would you bring me a postcard?"

The professor had a son who spent far too much time behind bars (either in jail or on the tavern floor). One evening he got the word that Junior was on a real binge, and anxious to get him back to the sanctuary of the home before the family name was ruined, he dashed off. He approached the neighborhood booze parlor, distracted and angry, when a prostitute thrust herself in his path.

"Hi, pop," she invited, "are you looking for a naughty little girl?"

"No, I'm not," he replied, "I'm looking for a naughty little boy."

The girl glanced at him indifferently. "Well," she said, "I've got a brother."

A wealthy American spinster wanted to marry a man who had never slept with another woman. The resourceful detective agency she hired finally found him down in Australia. So after the proper negotiations, it was arranged. On the night of their wedding the spinster came from toilette into the bedroom to discover her new husband had piled all the furniture, including the bed, into the living room and the bedroom was bare to the rug.

"WHY?" she asked.

"Well," said her new spouse, "I never slept with a woman before, but if it's going to be anything like those kangaroos, we'll need all the space we can get!"

When the Middle East sultan entered his harem unexpectedly, his wives let out a terrified sheik.

Old Phos's dictionary defines a mummy as an Egyptian princess who was laid in a tomb.

A couple of newlyweds were getting settled into their stateroom, waiting for their honeymoon cruise to begin. Suddenly the bride remembered that she had forgotten her Dramamine, without which she would be deathly sick. Simultaneously, the bridegroom remembered a drugstore purchase which he had forgotten to make; so he gallantly offered to run down quickly to the nearest pharmacy.

Down the gangplank and up the street he ran for several blocks, until he found a drugstore. Out of breath, he charged into the establishment and hurriedly whispered his double order to the druggist.

Giving him a look full of fatherly advice, the druggist leaned over the counter and whispered to the young man, "Son, I don't want to pry into your personal affairs, but if it makes you sick, you shouldn't do it."

CONTRACEPTION

by Alan Czapman, M.D., T.B.W., B.Z.F.G.T.

(Editor's Note: Dr. Czapman, the famed Hungarian physician, gained his vast medical knowledge by hanging around hospital emergency wards. In the past he has spoken out on such controversial topics as bad breath in dogs, mercy killing of fruit flies, and brain surgery to relieve hangnail pain. Now, with characteristic eloquence, Dr. Czapman writes on a subject of current interest.)

Allow me that I should say it honors me greatly to be able to write an article on contraception for Voo Doo magazine. Even more thrilling is this than the time I was asked to write an article on voodoo for Contraception magazine. Anyhow, is now to the subject at hand, contraception.

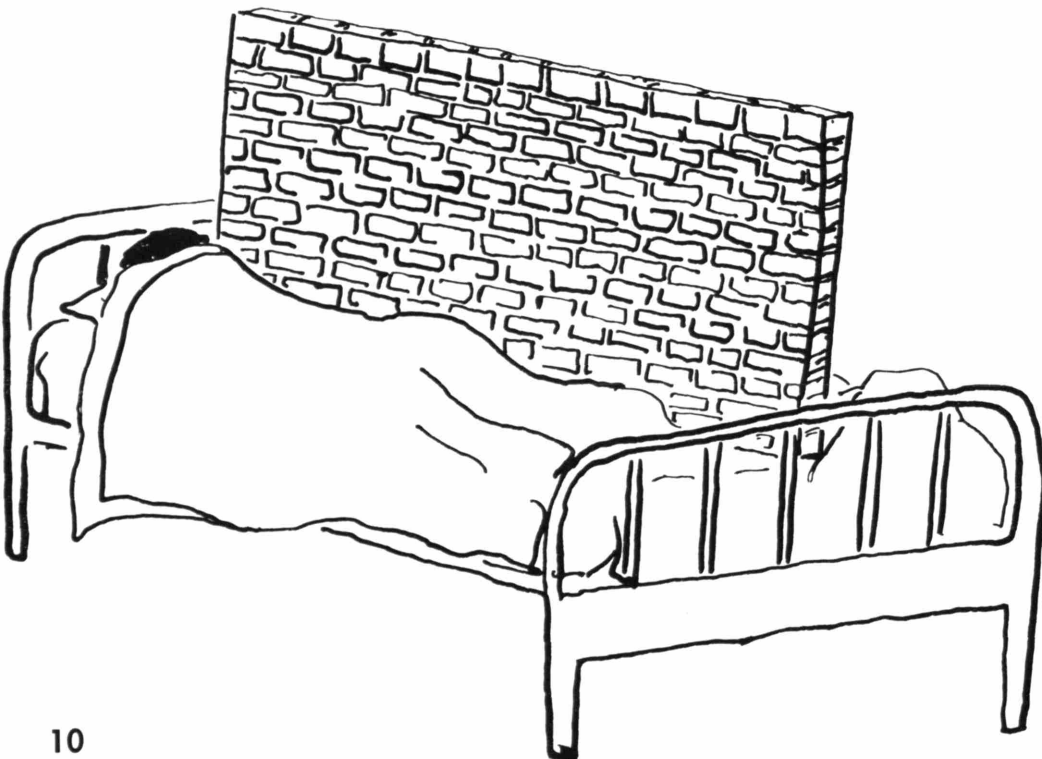

In simplest terms, contraception means that you aren't having any babies. Why not the babies you ask. Well, for example are the young married couples who maybe can't afford to have the babies yet. For them, contraception is a desirable thing. So now you ask how is accomplished this contraception. So I tell you. As a genuine medical person, I advocate three types of the contraceptive things: sterilization, jellies, and "the pill".

1. STERILIZATION . . . In this method, the husband and wife who think maybe they would like the baby-making take hour-long baths. They get themselves so clean that they do not want to touch each other or get all hot and sweaty. Thus is no babies.

2. JELLIES . . . Here is whee couple, when get urge, instead starts eating the jellies, like especially the grape and it is tasting so good that they can't stop eating long enough for babies to get made.

3. "THE PILL" . . . Is of course the sleeping pill which eliminates one of the major causes of babies, energy. These are the methods, my friends. Try them. They will work for you and for those very close to you too. And finally I will leave you with the words of the late great Prof. E. Lak-tik of the Budapest Medical School; "Babies is cute, but not in large quantities."

A middle-aged railroad executive was giving his inquisitive young son his first tour of a railroad yard. The lad asked, "If dogs can have puppies and cats can have kittens, why can't trains have choo-choo's?" Tired of his young son's innumerable questions, the father referred him to the conductor. When the little boy asked the conductor his very important question, he was told to ask the engineer, whom he found sitting in his engine.

When the engineer heard the boy's question, he looked at him for a long minute and then asked, "Son, did your father send you here to ask me that?"

The little boy said, "Yes, sir."

Whereupon the engineer said, "Well, you go tell him that the Baltimore and Ohio always pulls out on time."

Elsewhere in this magazine you have read (I hope) a plea from our staff to buy the mag during the school year, or more importantly, to join the VooDoo staff. I hope you will consider our invitation and come see us.

But let us suppose that you can neither write humorous stories nor draw funny, cute pictures (although it is a little hard to believe that you can't do better than some members of our present staff!). There are still other ways for you to find an excuse to spend an infinite amount of time around the office consuming tasty, thirst-quenching edibles. My favorite excuse is, of course, Publicity Staff.

Are you the kind of man who enjoys blowing up bridges, but is ineligible for the Viet Cong? Do you get strange pleasures out of writing funny words in public places? Can you attract crowds like an auto wreck? Do you enjoy making fools out of thousands of people, including yourself? Then VooDoo Pub Staff is the place for you! Join us this fall in our Tuesday night revels as we plot all kinds of fun, weird things to do to MIT, Cambridge, the World and the rest of the VooDoo Staff.

Approximately fifty of you reading this are coeds — Whoops! — girls. It is really not entirely out of the question that you, too, can enjoy this stimulating activity. Why, if some of you should happen to show up for our Freshman Smoker, we promise not to use bad words unless you do!

See you in September. Happy Matriculating!

Another abstruse production by Voo-Doo's most prolific author (he writes a lot, too), that worldly-wise veteran of many years and innumerable stories, D. F. Nolan.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

Let me tell you about the good old days; I mean the really old days. Not any of this 1920's or 1890's stuff, but the old days — the days back before they'd invented beer trucks, or even beer, for that matter. Back even before they invented Chuck Deber, if you can imagine such a thing.

"Aha!" you're thinking. "Caveman times."

But you're wrong. I mean even before that. I'm talking about the days when Time magazine was carrying articles on "Is God Born?" and the Garden of Eden wasn't even planted, let alone being a full-fledge housing development. I mean the days which were so old that they hadn't even invented days, and everything was just one big Twilight Zone.

Anyhow, this story concerns a fellow (or he might have been a girl; they hadn't invented bisexuality yet) whose name was Mwuh, or Ngg, or something like that — they hadn't invented real names yet, either — who lived in a hut (which he had to invent, even) by the river. He spent most of his time trying to figure out what to do with his bow-and-arrow (there were no buffalo to hunt yet), and trying to invent counting, so he could count his toes. All in all, it was a very dull existence.

So there he was, one afternoon, wishing that they'd hurry up and invent the New York Times, so he could read the VooDoo parody, or even invent Fridays, so he could have a TGIF party, when it happened.

All of a sudden, without any warning, there was this big voice from the sky, and it said, "Let there be light." And there was light — which confused the merry hell out of Mwuh (or Ngg, or whatever his name was) since he'd been getting along fine without it. Furthermore, as soon as it became light, Mwuh and his friends began to discover all kinds of things, such as bisexuality and racial differences (in the dark, everyone looks pretty much the same). In no time at all, they had Progress, and let me tell you, that was something else. The wheel, scotch tape, cigarette lighters, race riots, tailfins, religion — all the really important things in life were soon theirs. They even had buffalo, and beer trucks, and Chuck Deber.

And then, before they even knew it, they had electricity, and artificial lighting, and indoor plumbing, and COLOR TV, and similar appurtenances of civilization. Air pollution became commoner than air — and all the buffalo died.

And then one day, Mwuh (who was now a very old man) noticed that the electric light had turned night into day, and what with the air pollution turning day into night, everything was just one big Twilight Zone. The day after that, he noticed that due to the influence of such people as Sonny & Cher, The Rolling Stones, and the Hullabalooos, bisexuality had disappeared, as had enunciation, and that people no longer gave him odd looks when he replied to the question "What's your name?" by saying "Mwuh." In fact, everybody else's name seemed to be Mwuh (or Ngg).

And when he found his bow-and-arrow in the closet one Spring Cleaning, he couldn't figure out what on earth to do with it (the buffalo were all gone), so he threw it away. Even Time magazine seemed to be very much unchanged from the days of his youth, although he vaguely remembered that the accent had been different in the Religion section. Not very different, though, he was sure.

And pretty soon nobody had to work any more, and all the days of the week became indistinguishable from each other, so there were no more TGIF parties. People just sat in their government-built, government-owned urban renewal dwellings, which were looking more and more like huts each day, and tried to remember how to count their toes, but they'd forgotten. Finally, they even forgot how to make beer.

Once there was a beautiful armadillo named Mary Lou.

But Mary Lou was a raving maniac. She thought she was a Cow.

So she spent all her time on the range, milling around with the herd.

One day there was a stampede and Mary Lou's skull was crushed. The End.

Then there was the dumb secretary who had to unbutton her blouse to count to two!

The beautiful 21-year-old secretary, sobbing quietly at the funeral services for her 75-year-old husband, was overheard confiding to a solicitous neighbor:

"We had such a happy marriage for the six months it lasted. Every Sunday morning he would make love to me, and he'd keep time with the church bells that summoned you all to services."

She sobbed a little, then said with rising animation, "And he'd still be alive today if it weren't for that damned fire engine that went clanging by!"

Two young secretaries were eating lunch together when the conversation turned to their respective salaries. Upon hearing that her friend's salary was almost double her own, one of the pretty misses queried, "Why does your boss pay you such a huge salary if you can't take dictation, file, or keep books?"

Her young friend replied, "I can't conceive."

The room clerk told the bridegroom as they were leaving that the bill for the night was seven dollars apiece, so the bridegroom handed him FIFTY-SIX DOLLARS!

The Alabama Literacy Test

Ever noted for its progressive legislation, Alabama has long promoted higher standards in voting with its (in) famous Literacy Test. VooDoo, that sterling organization dedicated to good citizenship (and free beer), has unearthed a copy of this test and has discovered that there are not one but two versions: one for Whites and one for Others.

First we present a White Literacy Test, which, while not an actual copy of the test used, is representative of the level of literacy expected of the average white Alabama voter.

ALABAMA LITERACY TEST – WHITE
