

So, citizens, the meteorite shards have revealed the name of a piece of clothing? Surely wearing that piece will make your superpower even more powerful!

You know, this meteorite that's landed in the City Council building is turning out to be more difficult to remove than we expected; even worse, its emissions are attracting eccentric criminals who are trying to seize its power and take over the city. They've already hidden our keys to the basement, which makes even approaching the meteorite a difficult task indeed.

If you manage to harness the power of all six meteorites and put together a full six-piece costume intensifying all your powers, you might be just the heroes we need to remove our problem. Keep up the good work!